The FYBBA and FYBBA (S&L) had a field trip to Verlem village in Netravali Panchayat on 17th December 2019. It is Goa's first successful model in community tourism. The tourism enterprise is owned and managed by the community through Goa's first tourism co-operative - "Verlem Ecotourism Co-operative Society".

Aptly named "Aangan", the project is an integration of natural beauty and community life. The village has to offer a rich heritage, culture and traditions in the form of sacred groves, stone icons, old temples with their history, folk songs, a place where a "Tourist" is a "Guest", where the "Hotel" is actually the "Home", where the "Chef" is your "Host", where you are part of one big family and where the village is still a village and will never change. They believe in changing the tourist, not the country.

The project operates on a strict NO ALCOHOL policy and expects all the guests to abide by it.

Objectives of the field trip:

1. Students got an opportunity to spend time and interact with villagers, understand rural lifestyles and their day to day chores. It involved observation, understanding and experiencing the simple village life.
2. Nature exploration through a trek to the third highest peak of Goa and understanding the importance of different types of ecosystems and habitats, observing and appreciation of the flora and fauna, dependence and association of community on different ecosystems.
3. Understanding the eco-tourism project, responsible tourism concept and involvement and participation of communities in Sustainable development model.
